BULLPEN BULLETINS

TOM TALKS

Ho-ho, true believer!

Welcome aboard the all-new Bullpen Bulletins page! It may not seem all that different, but take a look in about a week ... and another the week after that ... and the one after that ... and, well, you get the general idea!

Instead of a single Bullpen Bulletins each month, we intend to bring you a new dazzling display of this particular brand of Marvel mayhem every week!

Why are we suddenly providing you with four times the fun? (And quadrupling the workload of our already exhausted executive editor, Mark Gruenwald, and his harried helper, Barry Dutter!)

The pace of the world is steadily increasing! The fax has replaced the letter, and video phones are on our horizon! People want their information and entertainment faster than ever!

In an heroic effort to keep up with the ever-mounting demand, Marvel is producing even more epic thrills and chills each week! The sheer number of our peerless publications, the myriad avalanche of new formats, and the varied genres which appeal to all manner of tastes and age groups keep growing, and expanding! The good news is that the quality has never been better! We're so gosh-darn proud of our wondrous works that we don't want you to miss a single one of them!

It's our intention to use this pulse-pounding page to keep you updated on all of the newest developments and startling storylines occurring within the mighty Marvel Universe. We want to alert you to as many special events as possible so that you won't accidentally miss one because you weren't made aware of it!

We want Marvel to be the comic book company you've always wanted it to be! We want to entertain, excite and intrigue you! If you have any ideas on how we can improve this page, or anything else for that matter, please feel free to write and let us know!

Thanks for being there!

Tom D

Just what we needed — more people to buy Christmas presents for! New editors have been multiplying here at Marvel faster than Madrox the Multiple Man!

The latest big gun in the Marvel rack is Mort Todd, fresh from his stint on Cracked magazine. We've always thought of Mort as a humorous, horrific, criminal-like rock and roll kind of guy, so we figured, why not have him start up a bunch of new magazines dealing with humor, horror, crime, and rock and roll? Naturally, his first project for us will be THE SCREWTAPE LETTERS, for our new religious line! We're not quite sure how he wound up with that one ...

Our next new warrior has already come and gone faster than a SPEEDBALL solo series. Paula Foye, formerly our publisher's secretary, lasted only a few short weeks as Marie Javins's assistant, before being accepted at the prestigious New York University graduate school, where she is a film major. That's the alma mater of cinema mega-virtuoso Spike Lee, so maybe Paula will go on to make that long-awaited Malcolm X-Men movie. Taking over for Paula is ultra-academic Kevin Somers, a student of Antioch College, who says if he could be any Marvel super hero, it would be Video Jack. You need to get out more, Kevin.

Let's have a nice'n'easy welcome for Fabian Nicieza's new assistant, Carlos Lopez, a graduate of Rhode Island College who still writes and draws a strip, "Antny and Muhree," for his school paper! Looks like we've got a future Marvel artist on our hands! Fabe and Carlos handle WONDER MAN, TEK WORLD, and stuff.

Another new page in the Marvel Universe Handbook is former intern Karl Bollers, now assisting associate editor Chris Cooper on such titles as PARAGON, ONYX OVERLORD, and soon, CAGE! Karl's haircut is kind of hard to describe, but let's just say that on more than one occasion, Karl has been told, "Look out! There's a tarantula on your head!"

The latest new mutant in Bob Harras's office is Lisa Patrick, formerly of our special events department. Lisa's favorite TV show is the X-MEN animated series, her favorite video game is the X-MEN game, she loves getting x-rays for fun, and her favorite kinds of movies are ... er, well, you get the idea.

Another entry in the Marvel War Journal is a man who recently made the move from real books to funny books! Glenn Greenberg who came to us from Berkley Books to go to work for Bob Budiansky. Glenn describes himself as a student of the teachings of Howard Stern, and says that his favorite Monkee was Mike "the guy with the hat" Nesmith.

Kelly Corvese's new assistant, Jaye Gardner, formerly of our sales department, is a new editorial hero for the nineties. Jaye says his favorite snack food is Hostess Ho-Hos, and describes himself as the youngest member of the Hair Club for Men.

The latest avenger to join our assemblage is Lynaire Brust, who will be joining the ultra-cosmic office of Craig Anderson, working on such projects as SILVER SURFER, GUARDIANS OF THE GALAXY and WARLOCK AND THE INFINITY WATCH. Lynaire, who attended Marist College in Poughkeepsie, lists her favorite color as Gamora green.

Now that we've got all these new editors, you know what that means: that's right — we're going to have to start publishing more comics! And more comics from us means more choices for you! But hey, that's the kind of company we are!
